

Julie McNair

BEING being human HUMAN

With 30 pieces Being Human reveals much about where Telluride sculptor Julie McNair is in her life and career as an artist. By technical mastery and astounding creativity, Julie infuses each ceramic figure with her sense of humor and joy of life. It's an interesting crowd, this collection of recent work in her five-year-old series. Their quirky playfulness is an easy invitation to contemplate deeper issues. "I start a piece with a specific idea, whether it's a personal concern or more of a big picture dilemma. From that starting point," says McNair, "I jump into the creative flow. The finished piece ends up embodying that energy."

The human form is a perfect format for turning the intangible into tangible, and is part of what makes this body of work so successful. "I've had ideas for decades that I could never express to my satisfaction, until now." From wrestling with man's long-term impact on the planet to discovering self-love, these figures express highly personal emotional content as well as create relevance to all humankind.

McNair has received critical acclaim both statewide and nationally for the originality and technical innovations of this series. With agility and confidence she is able to take the skills honed over 35 years working in a variety of media and apply them, often in unorthodox ways, to her clay. Her intriguing surface textures, frequently created with the use of press molds, are enhanced by detailed painting and sealed with a post-fired patina reminiscent of cast metal sculpture.

The show's undercurrent of ecology can be seen in the multiplicity of meanings of each title. "This is such an exciting time to be alive," says McNair. "As humans we are facing big issues. My concern has more to do with how we handle them than ultimate solutions." By finding the humor in the human condition, McNair seems to defuse the egotistical importance that plagues each of us from time to time.

"Being able to exhibit so many of my works in one location is such an honor," says McNair with gratitude. "So many pieces have left my studio for competitions and galleries, never to be seen as part of the larger whole." As with each of us, each Being Human sculpture is divinely complete, but with a larger population one can enjoy a more true perspective. Shawna Hartley

Julie studied sculpture at North Texas State University where she earned a Bachelor of Fine Arts degree. She then earned a Master of Fine Arts in sculpture from the University of Wyoming. After graduating, Julie worked as an Artist-in-Residence for Northwest Community College in Powell, WY and was then hired as an Assistant Professor at Mississippi State University. After learning to be a grants writer, she moved to Houston, TX and worked for Creative Alternatives, an after school art program. The Art League of Houston then hired her as their executive director. Julie moved to Telluride in 1985 in search of less stressful work and a more laid back lifestyle and found self-employment most rewarding. She owned and operated McNair Gallery for more than 17 years, representing herself and other emerging artists. Julie then worked for the Ah Haa School for the Arts, where she has taught since 1992, as their Curriculum and Exhibitions Coordinator. She is now working full time in her studio and is currently represented by Telluride Gallery of Fine Arts and in Denver by Sandra Phillips Gallery. Visit www.juliemcnair.com to view more of this series and lists of exhibitions and awards.

Julie McNair would like to thank the following for their support for Being Human and the publishing of this catalog:

Ah Haa School for the Arts
Telluride Gallery of Fine Arts
Judy Kohin
Nancy Craft
Shawna Hartley
Susie Meade
Doug & Mary McNair
Romey Glenn
Robert Weatherford
Susan & Clint Viebrock
Telluride Inside...and Out
Ellen Price & Jamie Cloyd
Mason DeMist

BUNNY

29 x 11 x 10" | clay with oils & rabbit

FOSSILIFEROUS

34 x 10 x 10" | clay with mixed media

AN OFFERING

36 x 9 x 6" | clay with mixed media

RELIC

34 x 10 x 8" | terra cotta & white clay

WIND BLOWN

32 x 8 x 6" | clay with mixed media

KUDZU MAN

38 x 13 x 8" | clay with mixed media

ASPEN MAN

38 x 13 x 8" | clay with mixed media

ENOUGH SAID

37 x 11 x 7" | clay with colored slips

AIRBORNE

34 x 12 x 10" | clay with mixed media

CAVEMAN

32 x 10 x 8" | clay

EN TRANCED

36 x 12 x 8" | clay with mixed media

SCHOOLED

32 x 10 x 6" | clay with mixed media

FUEL FOR THOUGHT

GILDA

GRACE

HIDDEN AGENDAS

STANDARD TRANSITION

SUITED

UP STREAM

WILLING

WITHIN

MADE IN CHINA

MEN-O-PAUSE

MEN-O-PAWS

PLANTED

PLAYING HOUSE

CHARGED

ACCESS DENIED

CAGED

LOOKING FOR A PAIR

Ah Haa
School for the Arts
TELLURIDE | COLORADO

the ah haa school is proud to support regional artists and local galleries to fulfill its mission to explore, develop and celebrate creativity

300 south townsend | telluride, co 81435
970.728.3886 | www.ahaa.org

this exhibition was made possible by the support and partnership with

TELLURIDE GALLERY OF FINE ART
970.728.3300 | www.telluridegallery.com